Numb. 1[illegible]

The Daily Courant.

Monday, November 5. 1705.

From the Paris Gazette. dated November 6.

Madrid, October 23.

THEY write from Saragoſſa the 13th of this Month, that the revolted Catalans ſhunning an Engagement with the regular Troops that are on the March towards Catalonia againſt them, had begun to make Excurſions on the Right of the Ebro, and had poſſeſs'd themſelves of ſome defenceleſs Places. But they could not get Entrance into Maella, the Inhabitants of which Town refiſted their Efforts and contemn'd their Threats. The King's Troops were drawing together at Alcarraz, and Prince Tſerclaes, in order to drive the Rebels from off the Frontiers of Arragon, had ſent a Body of Foot and Horſe towards Alcanniz and Caſpe. He afterwards march'd thither himſelf with 200 Horſe and 1000 Foot, and on his Approach thoſe who were in thoſe 2 Places, and who had excited them to revolt, fled out of them, and the Inhabitants ſubmitted to the King's Mercy. The Count de Cifuentes, who was in Alcanniz, had much ado to eſcape; for being very ſick he was forc'd to be carried off in a Chair. A Reward of 1000 Piſtoles is promis'd to the Perſon that ſhall deliver him into the Hands of Juſtice alive or dead. The other Places that had follow'd the Example of Alcanniz and Caspe, have as readily return'd to the King's Obedience. Prince Tſerclaes was to march afterwards to Lerida. We have Advice ſince, that the Canon, Mortars, and Ammunition that came from Pampelona, were arriv'd at Saragoſſa, and that the Horſe commanded by Don Joſeph de Salazar, with which were ſome Troops of Dragoons, were arriv'd there from Valencia; and that the Regiments of the Orders and of the Aſturias with 2 Troops of Cadets of the King's Guards were alſo arriv'd there from Caſtile by the Way of Calatayud and Taracona, There were beſides, 3000 Men of regular Troops near Lerida, and Prince Tſercles after he had joyn'd them was to enter Catalonia.

From the Leiden Courant, dated November 11.

Montpellier, October 27. To Day we receiv'd Advice, that the Archduke has made Don Antonio de Pagueres Governour of Gironne, of which Place the Malecontents of Catalonia poſſeſs'd themſelves ſome Days ago.

From the Paris Gazette, dated November 6.

From the Camp at Soncino, October 23. After the Duke of Vendome had, on the 16th of this Month, forc'd the Intrenchments the Enemy had made at the Head of the Bridge they had laid over the Serio at the Village of Mondodena, they broke their Bridge the ſame Day, ſeeing it was impoſſible for them to paſs the River in the Face of the King's Army. The Night following they decamp'd and march'd up towards Crema. The 17th at Day-break the Duke of Vendome march'd with 2 Regiments of Dragoons and 5 Companies of Grenadiers to obſerve their march, and at Night return'd to Rivoltella de gli Arpini, where was the Right of his Camp. The 18th he caus'd the Army to march along the Serio, and advancing with the ſame Troops he did the Day before, he found the Enemy had caus'd a Body of Foot to paſs the River over a Bridge near Crema. He gave order for attacking them, and immediately they repaſs'd the Bridge, which they broke down after them. They made a great Fire croſs the River with Cannon and Muſquets, by which 12 Grenadiers were kill'd or wounded, and the Count de Colmenero and the Chevalier de Luxembourgh receiv'd each a Contuſion. But the Duke of Vendome having caus'd his Cannon to be brought up, they fir'd and beat in pieces a great number of Carts and Waggons, kill'd ſome Men and Horſes, and oblig'd the Enemy to withdraw. The 19th and 20th the Enemy march'd up 6 Miles above Crema, and the following Night paſs'd the Serio at Vidaleſco. The Duke of Vendome could have diſputed their Paſſage: But ſeeing the Cremoneze and the lower Oglio were cover'd, he judg'd it more worth while to go and beſiege Soncino. He march'd thither with Expedition the 21ſt, and poſted his Right on the Oglio above Soncino and his left at Ticengo, on a Canal that cover'd the Front of the Army. The ſame Day he gave Order for 8 Pieces of heavy Cannon to be brought from the Poſt of the 14 Naviglioes. The 22d he caus'd the Attack to be begun, and the ſame Day the Governour beat a Parley and yielded himſelf and Garriſon Priſoners of War; they were a Battallion of 400 Men. In the Place was found a great Magazine of Forrage, and 20000 Rations of Bread. The Duke of Vendome had caus'd a Bridge to be carried up to Santa Maria del Tinazzo, where the Army has its Right, and he expected to be ſpeedily join'd by the Troops that guarded the Poſt of the 14 Naviglioes, whence they may at preſent be ſpar'd, and by a Detachment of 8 Battallions and 9 Squadrons, which did not ſet out from Piemont till the 16th and 17th.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated November 10.

From the Camp at Mizenheim, near Haguenau, Nov. 2. The Prince of Baden, who is gone to Frankfort accompanied by ſeveral General Officers, to meet the Duke of Marlborough, is expected back here from Raſtat to morrow or next Day. The Regiment of Baden is put into Winter-Quarters at Croon-Weiſſenbourg: That of Oſnabruck, Foot, which was in the Lines of Stohlhoffen, began to march Yeſterday for Italy. Our Army, which at preſent is commanded by General Thungen, is to keep the Field ſome Days longer till Hombourg be taken. The Pruſſian Troops, whoſe march was deferr'd from one Day to another, will begin their March to morrow to cover that Siege. 'Tis reported 12 or 15000 Men will be put into Winter-Quarters on this ſide the Rhine, that the reſt will paſs that River, and that all of them will be poſted in ſuch manner that they may draw together at a ſhort Warning.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 10.

Landau, Nov. 3. Yeſterday the Palatine Troops commanded by the Count of Naſſau Weilbourg, march'd from the Imperial Army to beſiege Hombourg; and the Pruſſians commanded by Lieutenant Geueral Arnheim, are alſo march'd towards the Anweyler Dale, to cover that Siege. The Palatine Troops are to be reinforc'd by 2 others of their Elector's Regiments that are in Garriſon here: And a great number of Carts and Waggons are ſummon'd in from the Country round this Place, to draw the

Artillery

Artillery and Ammunition of War neceſſary for that Enterprize.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 10.

From the Army of the Allies at Hoogſtraten, November 5. The 3d of this Month the Detachment that took Santvliet rejoin'd the Army at Kalmthout, after having demoliſh'd the Fortifications of that Place and burnt the Palliſadoes. The 4th at 7 in the Morning we decamp'd from Kalmthout, and marching in 4 Columns came hither. To morrow we ſhall march to Turnhout, in order to draw near to the Maes. Our heavy Baggage was ſent that way to Day, In our March we ſhall detach the Troops that are to winter in Breda and ſeveral other Places as far up as Maeſtricht and Liege. Monſieur d' Auverquerque will lead to Maeſtricht the Troops that are to have their Winter-Quarters there. The Garriſon of Santvliet are conducted to Schoonhoven in the Province of Holland. The Enemy's Army (the Command of which the Elector of Bavaria has left with the Marſhal de Villeroy and Marſin, on his departure to Bruſſels,) have alſo begun to ſeparate, and file towards the Winter-Quarters aſſign'd them; And, 'tis reported, that in the City of Antwerp they deſign to quarter no leſs than 8000 Foot and 2000 Horſe.

From the Harlem Courant, dated November 10.

Breda, Nov. 7. The Garriſons of Bergen-op-zoom, this Place, Bolduc, &c. fil'd from the Army near Hoogſtraaten the 5th Inſtant, and march'd to their reſpective Quarters. Yeſterday the Engliſh Regiments of Horſe of Lumley and Wood, making 5 Squadrons, the Engliſh Battallion of Guards, and another Regiment; and with them the Engliſh Train of Artillery and Ammunition-Waggons, arriv'd here.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated November 10.

Amſterdam, Nov. 9. The Ships carried into Dunkirk by the Squadron of which Monſieur de St. Pol had the Command, are, beſides the Convoys, 3 Engliſh Merchant Ships, 3 of Dantzick, 1 of Coningsberg, 1 of Colberg, and 2 Dutch Ships whoſe Maſter's Names are Goyer and Hem, and 8 Hookers of Zurickſee that were taken the Day before the Action.
